

Botany in Action volunteers will join Savannah Tree Foundation for on Sunday morning at Mother Mathilda Beasley Park in downtown Savannah. This urban park is owned and managed by Chatham County Public Works Department and is used by neighbors, sports teams and visitors. Completely restored in 2008, after a soil remediation project, the park now enjoys a functional wetland, athletic fields, dog park, community pavilion, playground and Mother Mathilda Beasley's historic home.

Volunteers will help weed around the various wetland area tree species, possibly spread mulch and work to further beautify this park. Volunteers should wear closed-toe shoes and long pants, and expect to be hot and sweaty. Sun hats are encouraged. Project will be Sunday, July 31, leaving the Center at 9:00 am. Continental breakfast, water bottles, t-shirts and lunch and transportation will be provided.

About the Savannah Tree Foundation:

The Savannah Tree Foundation's mission is to preserve, protect, and plant canopy trees in Chatham County, Georgia. Through direct action and education, the Savannah Tree Foundation promotes an awareness of trees as vital environmental resources and an important part of our cultural heritage. Founded in 1982, the Savannah Tree Foundation is the oldest urban and community forestry organization in the State of Georgia. For more information visit www.SavannahTree.com.
